

Dear FCC representative,

I am a user of the internet and I do not approve of repealing the right of Net Neutrality. In no way is this a matter of expanding freedom. It's more of a method to reduce internet freedoms. It massively reduces the rights of internet users which are disarranged by ISP's daily.

The previous protections do address the problems and do them adequately. This attempt is a clear matter of corruption by ISP lobbying. It should not go through. In order for free market to function like it should. Access to the entire internet under the same rules is a necessity. This attempt by Ajit Pai to cripple the internet's successful current form should be grounds for dismissal. This act's title alone is clear misdirection and internet citizens will not stand for it. It is OUR internet, we PAY for this service from ISPs and they can not be given the opportunity to manipulate traffic for their own benefit.

Public comment is not a hinderance it is a right with something as important as this. I hope that the FCC head needs to embody the people and not bribery from corporate interests. Net Neutrality needs to be maintained for all in the future. I am an american, I am in the IT sector. I assure you that destroying Net neutrality would have a massive negative economic impact for all.

Make the right decision and maintain title 4 classification for broadband. The Americans who use it will be watching.

Sincerely,

Brandon Mark Sternburg
